

Private Adaptation Investment Bootcamp

Mobilizing investment in private sector solutions for climate change adaptation

Context

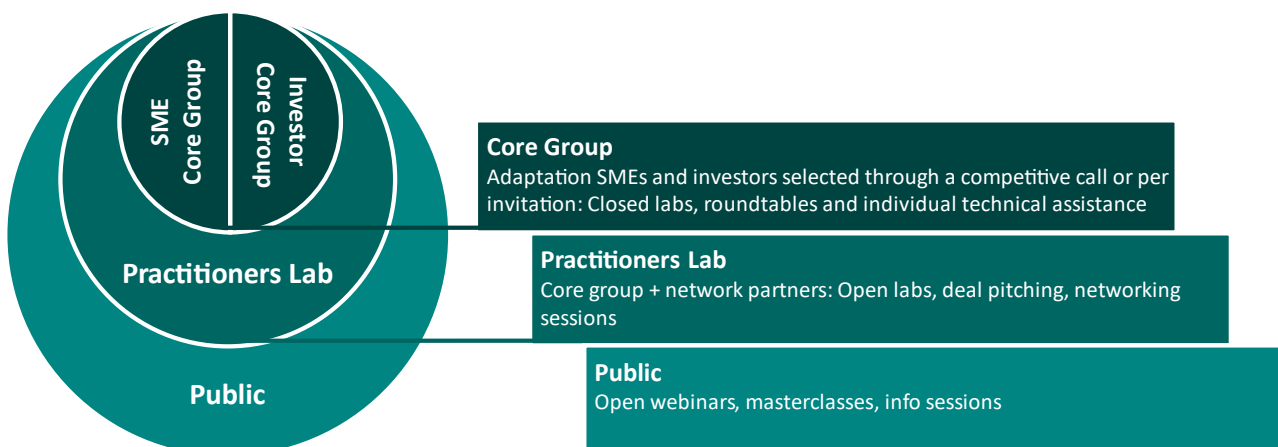

The science is clear: Climate action across the board is more urgent than ever. But even the best efforts to minimize human activities that accelerate global warming are now too little too late to avert already apparent and expected impacts of a changing climate. The urgent need to adapt to the impacts of climate change is therefore also clear. This comes with opportunities for innovation and with business opportunities to meet a growing demand for products and services that build resilience and enable adaptation to the impacts of climate change. As literacy on climate risks improves, and markets for adaptation solutions develop, investor interest is also increasing.

Our approach

PrivABoo is a peer-learning approach targeting practitioners at various stages of climate change adaptation investments and finance with the aim to

- ✓ Equip SMEs and investors with tools, information, and skills to scale up SMEs with business models in the field of climate change adaptation
- ✓ Build a network that enables knowledge sharing, business creation and acceleration, and innovation partnerships for climate change adaptation
- ✓ Develop a scalable approach to promote private adaptation investments

We offer four learning cycles that respond to the individual needs of its participants, intersect & overlap at various stages, and mix & match different participatory formats (Exchange, training and individual technical assistance).

Who can participate?

Adaptation Solution Providers

... SMEs with technologies, products or services that build resilience, reduce vulnerability, and help their clients adapt to climate change.

... SMEs, companies, startups & entrepreneurs who are interested in learning about business opportunities in climate change adaptation, and associated investor interest.

Adaptation Finance Providers

... investors or other providers of finance for climate change adaptation.

What do we offer?

PrivABoo offers participants a space to connect, exchange and pool expertise to drive investment in business models for climate change adaptation. Our aim is to support the transfer of knowledge to mobilize climate change adaptation investments in and from the private sector. PrivABoo focuses on showcasing practical examples for private adaptation investment from among its participants, facilitating peer-learning between participants and building a network of partners to mobilize additional investments for climate change adaptation.
